WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.-Secretary of the " warry Charles Foster will present for the fiscal year ended June 30 were $458,-544,235 03, and the expenditures, $421,304,-470 46, leaving a surplus of $37,239,762 57. To this was added $54,207,975 75, deposited for the redemption of national bank notes; $9,363,715 for the same purpose; $3,810 re- possessions, ceived on 4 per cent bonds issued for interest accraed, and $34,132,372 16, making of $184,947,635 48, which was applied to the payment of the public debt. The receipts as compared with 1890 fel! off $5,418,847 52 and the ordinary expenditures increased $57,636,198,14. His statement regarding outstanding bonds is the same as that of the United States

Treasurer published last week. The revenues for the present year are estimated at $433,000,000 and the expenditures at $409,000,000, leaving an estimated surplus of $24,000,000. It is expected that there will be a cash balance of $139,728,-145 88 on June 30, 1892. It is estimated that the revenues for 1893 will be $455,336,350 44 and the expenditures $441,300,093 61.

In view of the requirements of the sinking fund for 1892, it was deemed advisable to suspend the redemption of 414 per cent bonds until after that year should begin. The amount outstanding on September 1 was $50,862,200.

The Monetary Transactions. In speaking of the public moneys, Mr.

The monetary transactions of the Govern The monetary transactions of the Government have been conducted through the Treasurer of the United States, 9 subtreasury of heers and 213 national bank depositaries. The number of such depositaries on November I, 1881, was 183, and the amount of public moneys held by them on that date, including those to credit of the Treasurer's general account and United States disbursing officers, was $20,106,876 92, a reduction since November I, 1890, in number of 21, and in amount of holdings of $28,80,810 76. He asks that Congress set promptly in the matter. The Operation of the Tariff.

In relation to the tariff Mr. Foster says: Inder the operations of the new thriff the customs revenue has been decreased as far as is consistent with the current needs of the Government. By the readjustment of littles in the line of protection to American abor and American industries, the free list has been emerged by the addition of arti-les which from climatic or other conditions cles which from climatic or other conditions are not produced profitably nor extensively in the country, adequate protective duties have been imposed upon articles that come into competition with our own productions new industries have been established and others climulated, thereby giving increased employment to American labor, and better control of our home market to our own peo-ple; and the price of meanly every article of common consumption has been reduced to the consumer.

Impartice as a considerable portion of our revenues must be derived from duties on imports, it is the part of wisdom and patriotism to sandjust the rates as to have regard first to the interests of our own people and the righ ful demands of American labor for remain stative wares. I do not believe that may a raidenable numb of the people destroyed, or wares reduced to the European masts, which would be the inevitable result of a reduction of duties with a view to revenue only. A comparison of the prices of goods imported respectively under the old and a warriffs where rates have been increased will demonstrate that the turiff is a tax upon the foreign competitor in our mathetis in the wale of such articles as are extensively produced here, and that the duties are in fact thus deducted from the foreign market value, and are paid by the foreigner as a tax for our privilege of selling his goods here at prices fixed by our own people competing among themselves again tree. Recommendations Again Urged.

His report then quotes from and renews the recommendations concerning needed amendments to the laws, made by his pre-decessor, and says that they have been made in whole or in part by every Secretary for the past ten years and their importance cannot be overestimated. It is unwise to neglect to furnish adequate means for the efficient collection and protection of the customs revenue. He asks that an ad-ditional appropriation be made for the pur-pose of defraving the expenses of an inrensed customs force to take care of the merchandise sent to the World's Fair.

The receipts from internal revenue amounted to $146,055,415 97, an increase of $3,440,719 40 over 1890. The total produc on of distilled spirits was 1,159,062,389 gallons, an increase of 6,686,461 gallons. There was also produced 1,804,712 gallons of fruit brandy: 3,819 distilleries were operated, and 30,497,209 barrels of beer were

Imports of merchandise amounted to $844 916,166, an increase of $55,605,787, and the exports amounted to $884,480,810, an increase of $26,652,126. The exports exceeded the imports by $39,564,614. The exorts of treasure amounted to $108,953,642 and the imports to $36,259,447. The export trade with Great Britain amounted to his eport to Congress to-day. In it he $441,599,807 and the imports to $194,723,262, shows that the revenues of the Government The value of exports and imports carried in ears was $72.856,194. Exports increased to France, Germany, China, Brazil, Spain, British Australia, Mexico, Central Amer-ican States and the Netherlands, and decreased to the Argentine Republic, Great Britain, Russia and British North American

Effect of the Reciprocity Clause.

In relation to the reciprocity clause Mr. Fester says:

The reciprocity clause of the new tariff is opening new markets and increasing the demand for our products. During the year ending June 30, 1890, our exports of domestic products to Brazil amounted $11,902,496, and in 1891 to $11,009,273, an increase of $2,146,777. The treaty with Brazil went into effect April I hast, and it is not to be expected that the results will be very marked as yet. During the six months ending September 30, 1890, our domestic exports of merchandise to Brazil amounted to $6,208,805, and during the same period of 1891, under the operation of the reciprocity treaty, to $7,515,858, an increase of $1,307,604. This increase in exports to Brazil since the reciprocity treaty went into effect has been mainly in locomotives, stemm engines, machinery and cars for truminto effect has been mainly in locomotives, steam engines, machinery and cars for transars and milways, wheat flour, bacon, boards, deals, planks, etc. The reciprocity treaties with Santo Domingo and with Spain concerning trade relations with Cuba and Paerto Rico did not go into effect until September I, and as yet there are no available statistics to show the effects of the treaties upon our commerce. Furthermore, the reductions on duties on wheat and wheat flour imported into these islands from the United States will not take affect until January I, 1892.

The total arrival of immigrants was 560,

319, an increase of 105,017. The Increase of Ship Building.

The registered tonnage of the United States has increased 59,254 tons and the enrolled tonnage has increased 201,007 tons. The sailing tonnage has increased 62,324 tons and the steam tonnage 157,175 tons. The iron vessels built measured 105,618 tons. documented tonuage on the lakes is 181,722 tons, on the seacoast 554,963 tons, and the total, including the rivers, is 741. 598,24 tons. There are 398,348 tons on the Western rivers. In relation to this subject

Mr. Foster says: There should be no interference with the There should be no interference with the legal barriers that now preserve the consting trade to citizens of the United States, whether upon the lakes, the rivers, or the ocean. The late census shows that in addition to the large tonnage of documented vessels mentioned in the statistics above stated of vessels in this trade, there is a very considerable number of inferior understanding of the property of the pro very considerable number of inferior undocumented craft employed upon the rivers and eisewhere, consisting of unrigged barges, flatboats, etc. Upon the Obio river and its tributaries above Cincinnati alone this additional tonnage is found to amount to 2,470,547 tons. The value of the coasting and river fleet to domestic commerce was $68,128,500 in 1880.

The demand for ships of war will give us shipyards competent for building commercial vessels to any extent, and there is no good reason why ships should not be built here, and transport under American owner-

ere, and transport under American owner here, and transport under American owner-ship a fair share of our exports and imports. Great industries like ship-building and the navigation of ships should not be surren-dered by us to other nations without a de-termined strangle to retain them. No back-ward step should be taken in the efforts now being unde to restore the American flag to the high seas.

Deterioration of Immigrants. With the approaching exhaustion of the supply of free arable land in the United States only a trifling percentage of immi-grants now engage in farming on their aredeposits. The coitage of the mints dur- been their former occupation. The vast large towns, with the inevitable result of overstocking the labor market and depressing wages, while the least efficient and most victors among them soon drift into our vicious among them soon drift into our poorhouses and prisons to be a continuing burden upon our people. The laws already enacted by Congress for the purpose of checking this tendency and preventing the mischief which would result from unrestricted immigration have accomplished something. The attempt to enforce these laws efficiently has also developed a body of information, based on actual experience, which should be invaluable in framing future legislation. While the application of existing laws has very greatly diminished some of the specific abuses at which they were aimed, it obviously has not prevented a large increase in the total volume of imnigration and a distinct deterioration in its gration and a distinct deterioration in its average quality.

Good progress has been made during the past year in the natter of enforcing the provisions of the alien contract-labor laws. The fact that such laws are on the statute books, prescribing serious penalties for their infaction, has of itself had a most salutary effect and rended greatly to prevent all law-abiding efficients from attempting the importation of alien laborers under contract. Any legislation, however, looking to exclusion of Chinese, will fail of its nill purpose so long as the Canadian Government admits Chinese inborers to Canada, whence, armed with Canadian permits to leave and return to Canada at pleasure, they are at liberty to invade our territory along its entire Northern frontier.

The importance of providing some limitation of time within which claims against the Government shall be prosecuted, or, for want of such prosecution, be forever barred, is urged upon the attention of Congress. Attention is again invited to the need of legislation to provide suitable registry of deeds and other evidences of title to real property acquired and held for the use of the United States. gration and a distinct deterioration in its CORINNE, who has not been seen in Pittsburg lately, will appear in "Carmen Up to Date" at the Bijou Theater next week. Corinne is a pretty little woman whose dancing and vivacious style have won her a place among the burlesque stars. "Carmen Up to Date" may be classed with those com-posite structures, which are sometimes called burlesque and sometimes comile operas. John D. Gilbert and some other well-known people will assist Corinne.

Among the women stars in this country to-day it is probable that there is not one of such matured art and wonderful versatility as Modjeska, and she will be welcomed heartily when she pays the Duquesne Theater a visit next week. It will be remembered that she last appeared here in conjunction with Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett. Barrett is dead, Booth has retired, temporarily if not permanently from the stage, but Modieska is still in the fore front of the fray. She will appeac in a repertoire of unusual range.
